Literature," by Esther J. Trumble, comes from the press of Eldridge & Bro, Philadelphia. The work is the result of practical experience in high school teaching, and is arranged with a view to use in schools. It general reader who may desire light upon a period or an author and lacks time to pursue an inquiry through works of more plification. The book is neatly bound in cloth and well printed.

A new edition of Theodore Tilton's Tempest-Tossed, printed on heavy paper from new plates, is about to come from R. Worthington, New York. The story is of thrilling interest, and Mr. Titton has put upon it some of his best work. The book

A notable change has taken place in the editorship of the International Review, Mr. William Ralston Balch succeeding Mr. ist and literateur of experience, and under his control the International gives promise of a new career. The double number for February-March speaks well for the The most nots new management. ble articles are Mr. Thomas Donaldson's "Protection to American Art," Miss Fiorence Kelley's "Admission of Wo-men into Universisies," Mr. I. N. Ford's "Decline of the French Premiersbip," Mr. George W. Julian's "Our Land Grant railways in Congress" and a thoughtful paper on "Our Future Banking System."

The North American Review, for March mes with an attractive table of contents A symposium on "Educationai Needs" with a subject of the highest import ance. Mr. Moncure D. Conway has critical paper on Gladstone; Prof. W. S. Sumner writes from his well known point of view on "Protective Taxes and Wages." "The Subjugagtion of the Mississippi" is taken in hand; there is an article by Mr Elizar Wright on "Some Aspects of Life Insurance," and Mr. Henry George is out spoken about "Money In Elections." It will be seen that the number covers a The Continent has begun the publication of its weekly number in montly parts, the second of which has just reached us, bring ing 128 pages of reading matter and 100 illustrations. In variety and excellence of its pictorial features The Continent aims high and hits the mark.

St. Nicholas steps into the first spring month with no end of good things for the young folks and all folks who like good stories told in simple style and can appre ciate exquisite illustrations. The boys will take special delight in Archibald Forbes warstory, "Where was Villiers?"

It is now about two years since Mr Henry George's "Progress and Poverty made its appearance. Since then it h been widely read and warmly discussed Mr. George maintains the radical propos tion that private property in land is an abomination, and this he perceives to be the root of wage troubles. The J. W. Lovell Company, New York, publishes cheap and well printed edition

Captain Paul Boyton, the swimmer, lecturing in the towns in England. M. de Fallieres, after one of the man

Cabinet crises, fainted in his seat in the Chamber of Deputies. Miss Crabbe, the daughter of the English actress, is the rival of the beautiful Miss Chamberlain at Cannes. Mrs. Garfield looks ten years older nov and more care-worn than when the late President was removed to Long Branch.

Her hair is sprinkled with gray. The Emperor and Empress of Russia are expected to visit Copenhagen with their family about the middle of June—in case they be not blown up meanwhile. Mr. Charles Dudley Warner, who ha been a thorn in the side of the English book reviewers, is in Washington and had the honor of a dinner at the White House. Mrs. Oliphant's novels were the literary refreshments of the late Mr. Darwin. He read them constantly, and seldom closed one without the remark that "people do not quite appreciate Mrs. Oliphant yet.'

Gladstone enjoys the invaluable blessing of being a sound sleeper. For a statesman it is, however, no less important to be sound asleep when he is in bed than to be wide awake when he is in Parliamen Prince Bismarck is misrepresented b the illustrated papers. He has no mou tache, but a full beard, which he wear not because it pleases either him or h wife, but because it is a defense against th neuralgia, to which he is a martyr.

Sarah Barnhardt when in England la summer was engaged to 'play "La Dan Aux Camelias" at the Blackpool Wint Gardens. It is a great barn of a place, an was so great that after one act she refuse to go on. The manager of the Winter Gardens has just recovered in consequence £150 damages from M. Mayer, who managed her English tour.
